Hessen’s outstanding higher education

A specialist degree course is often the key to professional success and career opportunities. Hessen offers outstanding conditions for studying.

Hessen has a fantastic range of universities, universities of applied sciences (Fachhochschule), art colleges, theological colleges, technical administration schools and other higher education institutions that aren’t sponsored by the State of Hessen. Hessen also has good conditions for foreign students.

It’s particularly important that foreign students are quick enough to get information from their academic foreign offices and study guidance centres at the place where they would like to study in Hessen.
